Professional Positions and Service

Professor of Political Science, College of Emergency Preparedness, Homeland Security, and Cyber-Security [CEHC], University at Albany, State University of New York (2016-present). Currently serving as Chair of the CEHC faculty and teaching Emergency Preparedness and Leadership & Ethics.

Chaired Professor of Political Science, Department of Security, Strategy, and Leadership, Swedish Defense University (2008-2016). Developed accredited civilian undergraduate and MA programs. Extensive experience of supervising and examining Ph. D, M.A. and undergraduate theses. Chaired subject committees for political science and crisis management and personally developed more than a dozen major for-credit graduate, undergraduate, and in-service courses in subjects such as: Political Leadership and Crisis Management, Collaborative Leadership under Adversity, Exercise Design and Evaluation, and Basic Crisis Management Skills.

Scientific Expert, Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (2012-present) Supporting the OECD High Level Risk Forum with applied research and interactive educational design services in the area of strategic crisis management. Wrote commissioned research papers for the OECD on topics such as From Early Warning to Crisis Sense-making and Strategic Crisis Management Exercise Design. Delivered keynote addresses, major presentations and/or prepared and delivered scenario exercises at eight major OECD events in Paris, Geneva, Oslo and Seoul.

Editor in Chief of the Oxford Research Encyclopedia of Crisis Analysis (appointed fall 2015) Leading landmark global collaborative project, part of the Oxford U.P. Research Encyclopedias of Politics program, to produce major on-line and print (multi-volume) reference work.

Steering Group Member, European Intergovernmental Working Group on Civil Protection Exercises (2015-present). Edited and co-authored the proceedings from the September 2015 Geneva meeting. Planning for the 2016 meeting to be hosted by the Danish Emergency Management Agency in Copenhagen.

Faculty Affiliate of the Disaster Research Center, University of Delaware (2012-present). Research and educational cooperation with regard to international and domestic crises and disasters.

Visiting Professor and Instructional Designer, South Korean National Diplomatic Academy (2011-2014). Developed and taught graduate course in Crisis Management for S. Korean Foreign Service Officer trainees. Developed custom suite of teaching cases and crisis management simulations.

Pedagogical and Overall Lead, European Public Health Emergency Preparedness Project (2013-2014) Worked with the European Center for Disease Prevention and Control [ECDC] to develop a four day ‘train the trainers’ course for ECDC in house staff and national points of contact from the EU member states. The course included several scenario and ‘table-top’ exercises exploring issues of European cooperation and public health crisis management.

Director, CRISMART (The National Center for Crisis Management Research and Training) Swedish National Defense College (2004 to 2011). Scientific and managerial responsibility for 18 full-time staff, numerous part-timers, and an extensive national/international research and training network. Under my leadership, the center became a leading international center of excellence for basic and applied Crisis Management/Societal Security research and education. CRISMART partners on regular basis with actors such as the EU Commission and Specialized Agencies, the US Department of Homeland Security (Science and Technology Division), FEMA, the Swedish Cabinet Office, Swedish Civil Contingencies Agency, Swedish National Board of Health, the UK Health Protection Agency, and counterparts in China, Japan, and Malaysia.

Interactive Educational Design Consultant and Subject Matter Expert (2010-present). Supporting the organizations such as the US Federal Emergency Management Agency, University of Virginia (Batten School), and the Swiss Federal Chancellery among others in developing interactive educational materials for leadership development in the crisis management/homeland security and foreign policy domains.

Co-Principal Investigator, Advice in Crisis Project and Swedish Crisis Legal Advice projects (2010-present). Applied research projects funded by the U.S. Federal Emergency Management Agency and the Swedish Civil Contingencies Agency. These projects examine the interactions between leaders and lawyers at FEMA. On the basis of extensive interviews with users and producers of legal services across the agency, best practice models were formulated and used to develop a multi-day interactive interdisciplinary training package for FEMA Office of Chief Counsel including lectures, text and multi-media based teaching cases, and role play exercise. Circa 200 US government lawyers have been trained to date. A parallel pilot course for Swedish government lawyers is currently in progress.

Visiting Professor, School of Medicine, University of Virginia (2010-2012). Research and educational project development with an emphasis on problems of homeland security, critical infrastructure protection, community resilience, crisis management and counter-terrorism. Collaborated in conceptualizing, designing, and arranging a series of problem-focused conferences bringing together academic experts, students and senior practitioners from the public, private, and non-profit sectors.

Member, Editorial boards of the journals Governance (2006-present) and Political Psychology (2010-present). Expert reviewer for University of Chicago Press and more than a dozen major US and European-based professional journals in international relations, political science, public administration/public management, political psychology, security studies, crisis and disaster management, and emergency medicine.

Principal Investigator, Greater Stockholm Crisis Collaboration Project (Samverkansfunktion Stockholm, 2008-2010). Supported the Stockholm County Emergency Manager and senior representatives from local government, rescue services, law enforcement, emergency medical services, and mass transportation in enhancing regional resilience and developing coordination mechanisms for crisis prevention and crisis management. Observed and facilitated group discussions, provided analytical support, led study visit to Rotterdam and Amsterdam Regions in the Netherlands, helped to draft and edit 'manifesto' document.

Expert, European Center for Disease Prevention and Control (ECDC, 2010-2011). Member of a three person, interdisciplinary, expert panel that evaluated the response of the ECDC to the H1N1 pandemic.

(Acting) Professor of Political Science, Department of Security and Strategy, Swedish National Defense College (2004-2008). Responsible for developing crisis management research and education within the department and in collaboration with other departments at the College. Founding chairman, subject council (ämnesråd). Senior teacher, Program in Political Science: Crisis Management and International Collaboration. Chaired program revision committee.

Associate Professor (Docent), Department of Political Science, Uppsala University (2003-2008). Tenured lectureship awarded in January 2005 (resigned in favor of Chair at the Defense College in 2008).

Scientific Coordinator and Training Director, CRISMART (2000-2004). Responsibilities included strategic planning, information and marketing, research and training program development, recruitment and training of staff. Supervised research teams in Sweden, Bulgaria, Estonia, Finland, Iceland, Latvia, Lithuania, Norway, Poland, Russia, Rumania, Slovenia and the United States as part of the Crisis Management Europe research and training program launched in collaboration with the Swedish Emergency Management Agency (previously the Swedish Agency for Civil Emergency Planning) and the Swedish Institute of International Affairs.

Associate Professor of Political Science, The Swedish National Defense College, Stockholm (2000-2004). Primary research foci: Foreign Policy Decision Making and Crisis Management. Instruction of senior military officers, civilian officials, graduate and undergraduate students (as part of a joint program with the Department of Political Science, Uppsala University).

Member National Committee for Disaster Medicine (KAMEDO, 2004-present)

Member of the Scientific Advisory Board of the Swedish Emergency Management Agency (2002-2006). Evaluated research grant applications and provided quality control for agency-sponsored research programs and products.

Member of the reference group of the Stockholm City Crisis Preparedness Audit project coordinated by the Stockholm City Rescue Services (2002-2005).

Scientific Coordinator, Project Crisis Management Baltic Sea Area (CM Baltic) at the Swedish Institute of International Affairs (1998- 2000). Duties include crisis management research and training program development, own basic and applied research, recruitment and training of core staff and case writers, commissioning and supervising case studies, conference design, and training of practitioners in Sweden and abroad.

International Society for Political Psychology (ISPP), Governing Council Member (1998-2000) for a 2 year term.

Adjunct Lecturer (1997-98) Departments of Political Science and Economic History, Stockholm University.

Consultant (1994-1998) Assorted research and training projects for various Swedish government agencies including the National Defense Research Institute (FOA), the National Rescue Services Agency (SRV), and the Swedish Agency for Civil Emergency Planning (ÖCB).

Dissertation Fellow (1992-6) [Doktorandtjänst] Department of Political Science, Stockholm University.

Visiting Fellow (1992-93) Peace Studies Program, Cornell University.

Case Author (1993) Swedish National Case Teaching Center. Wrote teaching case on the Swedish response to Chernobyl in collaboration with the Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University (Nov. 1993) The case was regularly used for teaching and demonstration purposes during most of the 1990s.

Lecturer (1991-92) Led undergraduate seminar on political argumentation, debate analysis, and essay writing (Dept. of Political Science, Stockholm University).

Case co-Author (1991) Developed a research-based teaching case on the ‘Whiskey on the Rocks’ (U137) crisis, in collaboration with Rune Premfors. This was a component of a larger project entitled: Analysis of Politics and Administration Through Case Teaching. The case was frequently used for teaching and demonstration purposes.

Research Associate (1989-91) Collaborated with Bengt Sundelius on the Small States in Crisis Project. Conducted interviews with top level Swedish decisionmakers. Shared in all aspects of study: research design, theoretical development, data gathering, analysis, and writing research reports (several of which were published internationally).

International Research and Marketing Assistant, PK Bank (Stockholm, Sweden; 1986, June-Aug.) Prepared country reports outlining political and economic developments relevant to banking. Undertook and completed an extensive long term political and economic risk analysis of infrastructure lending projects in the Republic of Turkey.

Research Assistant (1985, Sept.-Dec.) Stockholm International Peace Research Institute. Provided editorial support for a volume derived from the 1985 SIPRI Conference on Space Weapons and Arms Control.
