Publish with us

We publish evidence-based knowledge, critiques, and research on a wide array of hazards, disasters, and across all phases of the disaster cycle. Specific interest is paid to:

- Rigorous original research and theory examining how individuals, social systems, policies, and processes shape disaster outcomes and vulnerabilities
- Studies exploring the interactions between social systems, and the natural and built environments in driving hazard risk and reduction
- Innovative methodologies that enhance accuracy, ethics, and real-world relevance in disaster research
- Teaching pedagogies that introduce emerging ideas and support learning for students and practitioners
